BRIEF MENTION.

ABOUT when is the warm weather going to begin? Luscious .- Those Wailuku grapes, a box of which costs only 50 cts. at Friel & Bush's. WHALEBOAT EXPRESS .- Last Wednesday forenoon at 11 o'clock, a whaleboat manned by natives arrived at Honolulu, having left Lahaina twentyfour hours before. She was dispatched hither by Mr. James Campbell of that place, on private business of his own. NEW COASTERS COMING .- We hear of three new schooners intended for the island coasting trade, that may shortly be expected here from the coast others now building. CAPT. HOBRON'S PROPELLER.-Tibbets & Sorenson have commenced getting out the timbers for the new inter-island steamer ordered by Capt. T. H. Hobron. She is to be of about 260 tons Hawaiian measurement, and it is expected will be launched by the 1st of January next.

A STEWARDESS .- A want heretofore much felt by lady passengers on the steamer Kilauca has been supplied on the new boat by the appointment of Mrs. Louisa Wood as stewardess. Mrs. W. (who is a half-caste) is intelligent, active and attentive, and her presence on the Likelike will conduce much to the comfort of lady passengers.

Music this Afternoon.-The Band will play at Emma Square, commencing at 5 o'clock P. M. Following is the programme :

RELIGIOUS SERVICES IN A CIRCUS TENT .- There will be services held in Mr. Derby's Circus Tent

on the Esplanade, on to-morrow (Sunday) evening, beginning at half-past seven, to which the public generally are cordially invited. The exercises will consist of singing, principally, inter- if there is to be any battle. The fact is that peoplace who would not care to enter a church.

Answers to Questions. -It is easy enough to ask questions—there is an old proverb to that effect and we shall not waste our time hereafter in enlightening the Gazette's stolidity without an equivalent. " Every tub must stand upon its own bottom," is Ray's "Proverbs;" Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress;" and Macklin's "Man of the World," Act

AGAIN .- Some time since we referred to the fact that notwithstanding the government prohibition, cattle were running in the upper part of Nuuanu valley, and as a result of our reference, quite a herd was coralled shortly thereafter. Now we are informed that on Sunday last about a dozen beef cattle and horses were seen grazing on the tabued ground. It is highly desirable that animals should be kept away from the upper part of the valley from whence comes the most of our water supply, in order that the ferns and shrubbery may have a fair chance to grow as of old, and prevent evapora-

A SCION OF ROYALTY IN AMERICA. -The following. from a New York correspondent of a London paper, is curious, and will be read with interest :

"I do not think it is generally known that General Ord, who is commanding the United States troops on the Mexican frontier, and seems likely to celebrate the first year of the second century of the Union by adding a new State thereto, is a grandson of George IV. The General's father was the King's son by Mrs. Fitzherbert. Her son was consigned to a tutor named Ord, who settled in the States, and gave his name to his pupil. When young Ord had reached man's estate he married a Virginian lady, and had by her two sons, whom he called Atlanticus and Pacificus. Pacificus is a judge in California; Atlanticus, having been educated at West Point, is now the general above mentioned. It would not surprise many persons if this descendant of an English king added to the Anglo-Saxon Republic the kingdom which the French Emperor wanted to convert into a Latin Empire, in order to counteract

THE LIKELIKE .-- Our new inter-island steamer left Honolulu on her first trip to windward on Monday afternoon, for the circuit of Hawaii, taking a fair freight, and eighty-six cabin and about two hundred and fifty deck passengers. Among the former were Her Majesty Queen Kapiolani, Her Highness Buth Keelikolani, and their Excellencies J. M. Kapena and Jno. O. Dominis. An immense crowd of spectators gathered at the landing, and as the beautiful craft swung off from the dock and commenced to move ahead, a royal salute was fired from Punchbowl in honor of the Queen. So large a number of passengers as were comfortably stowed on board the new boat last Monday could not possibly have been carried on the Kilauca. It is often to Thursday next, September 6th.

New Term .- The fall term of Punahou College commences on Wednesday next, Sept. 5th.

A Letter for "W. H.," who advertised for employment in these columns two weeks since, has been received at this office. Wm. NEVINS ARMSTRONG, Esq., of New York, but keiki Hawaii, will lecture on Friday evening next, at the Lyceum, on "The Lessons of the Hour." We anticipate a pleasurable evening.

BRITISH CONSUL GENERAL .- By official announcement in the Gazette we learn that the Earl of Derby has authorized Theo. H. Davies, Esq., to act as British Consul General during the absence of Major

THE NEW MAPS of the Islands lately received and already noticed by our cotemporary are indeed very fine; but how much more value would have attached to the map, if in the corners say, had been given a sketch of the principal harbors of the group, or only Honolulu and Hilo, showing the prominent headlands. &c.

HOT WEATHER .- The mercury has been up among the nineties, the past week. O ye fortunate dwellers among the sylvan shades on the mountain slopes of Maui and Hawaii! felicitate yourselves on your happy condition-unless you have some money to spend, in which case come to Hono-

WAGON STANDS .- The city needs a regulation, either by the Minister of the Interior or by the Privy Council, whereby wagons without a fare shall be appointed some particular locality to await customers, instead of as now obstructing the traffic of the streets by congregating on the most used thoroughfares.

AT THE Circus this evening the performances will be interesting. Several pupils of Mr. Derby will give exhibitions in gymnastics. Besides an amateur young gentleman appears in an act as a wahine on horseback, and Mr. Luproil will perform some very difficult feats on the Velocipede.

Fill the house! Anglo-Hawahan .- The following is a verbatim copy of a note recently received by a medical man in this city: " Dear Sir Dr .- Pleas Iour Boy caintent me this Lediy for mey favor

Iours trulley sarwent --What was wanted was that the doctor should professionally attend the bearer (this Lediy) a native woman, at the charge of the writer of the note. MACADAMIZING .- The process of "fixing" King street with a pavement of conglomerate coral, sand, and earth, has been extended down Nuuanu street to Queen, and it is thought will result in good work, after a time. While the work is going on, however, it is not agreeable to the public. Our reporter overheard a couple of pedestrians the other evening. while crossing a heap of unreduced coral lumps, conversing together in this wise: "Say, what in -one now on the way to take the place of the un- thunder kind of a road is this?" "Oh, this is fortunate Iolani on the Maliko route, and two macadamizing," was the reply. "Yes" was the somewhat profane response, "Mac-a-d-d sight

> FORT STREET SCHOOL .- In the Primary Department of this school, yesterday, the Teacher, Mrs. Miriam Webster, held her first "monthly review," in the presence of a number of lady and gentlemen visitors. The result was highly satisfactory, as exhibiting a marked advancement of the children in their studies and also,-what is of eminent promise for the future success of the school-an evident rapport and good understanding between the teacher and pupils. We sincerely trust that Mrs. Webster's efforts to arouse a stronger interest in the schools for the young will meet with success-there are momentous interests concerned!

THE TAXES .- We referred some two weeks or more ago, to the fact that a committee of tax payers had employed counsel to contend in the courts against the principle of double taxation, which it was understood government intended to enforce according to instructions issued to assessors. On enquiry we cannot find that any action has been or appears likely to be taken on the subject. notwithstanding the apparent preparations made, and it appears that the grand result will be that every tax payer will have to fight his own battlespersed with short addresses. It is believed that | ple having complicated interests don't care to bring many may be induced to attend services in such a them into the public investigation of a court of

A BIG STRIKE IN OPIUM.-Last Thursday Mr. Markham, the Custom House Guard, struck somewhat of a "bonanza" in opium. By the H. N. Carleton, lately arrived from Ching, some one hun-For the present we may remark that the old saying, dred and thirty chests of fine Oolong Tea were received to the order of the Chinese doctor of not in the Old Testament, but is to be found in | the ship, and placed in the Custom House, in bond. > THE WATER SUPPLY .- The Superintendent gives notice in Wednesday's Gazette that the police have district who would make faithful servants to the been instructed to report all offenders "against Government, but whether they are of the class the regulation fixing the hours for irrigation issued | which their Excellencies may favor, we don't know. on the 21st August." It was a blunder to send ignorant native policemen on such detective kind of work. The late W. H. Jordan, foreign police, performed the same work some years ago properly and without giving offence.

Joy sparkled in every eye, and auticipated pleasure The youthful traveller has got over a good deal seemed to deepen the happy expression that beamed from of ground since we last had the pleasure of reading his account of his European tour. From Geneva, he passed on to Lausanne, Fribourg, Berne, Zurich, and Mannedorf, a village on the lake of which he gives a charming description. Thence, be has proceeded to Basel and Strasbourg, where he has had a genial meeting with a young medical gentleman, Hawaiian-born, son of Dr. Hillebrand, whose name we have recently had occasion to recall with reference to our Madeira Islanders Immigration Scheme. The allusion to the wonderful "cock" of Strasbourg cathedral awakened long-forgotten memories of a pleasant both instructive and encouraging to look back upon tour on the Rhine undertaken by the writer, in the past, and see what progress has been made 1855, in company with his old friend, the Rt. Progress of Japan.

The trade of Japan, at the close of 1875, is set forth in authoritative consular statistics. The total value of imports for that year amounted to $29,467,067. The total value of exports was $18,014,890. The sum of $752,050 was paid for four merchant steamers. The great centres of the bulk of this trade, according to their relative importance, were Kanagawa, Hiogo, Osaka, Nagasaki and Hakodata. Cotton and wollen manufactures, metals, arms, ammunition, and sundries constitute the principal imports. The principal articles of export are raw silk, silk-worms, eggs, tea, copper, tobacco, wax (vegetable) camphor, coal, dried fish, rice, and miscellaneous. The United States, England, and Germany represent respectively the highest tonnage of foreign shipping employed in the trade. The value of Chinese sugar consumed in all Japan, in 1875, amounted to $3,482,588. The German firms surpass both French and English in the sales of imported mousselines de laine. Coal is largely exported, principally from the Takashima mine. Gold is found at Misobei and Segano; copper is worked at Kokufu, iron at Konejune, and tin at Tani Yama, about twelve miles from Kagoshima. Sul phur abounds in Jrvogashima. Nakanoshima, and Takarajuna. Plumbago has been worked at Kaseda. Lead, saltpetre, alum, and lime are found in various localities. In the north of Nugata Ken, is an important oil bearing region. Tobacco grows well in Japan; grapes also are plentiful, principally in the province of Nugata; the cultivation of tea is on the increase. There are paper-mills and glass factories in Japan. Imported knitting machines manufacture drawers and cinglets, which compete with foreign articles, Cotton-bleaching is successful. Osaka silk hats and caps defy foreign competition. A rice-mill is at work at Nugata, and weaving is carried on at Nutsuke, Sanjo and Kameda. Dyeing is well done. Gun-powder is made for the army. Pottery employs many hands. The mulberry-tree is extensively cultivated; at Kagoshima there are two factories for the weaving of silk. A beginning of railways has been made in Japan, and they are very successful. The lines from Kobe to Osaka, from Osaka to Ajekawa, and from Kanagawa to Yedo, were in operation at the close of 1875, others are in progress of construction. A Woman Begs to be Hanged.

A very singular case is reported in the American journals, with reference to imprisonment for life as a substitute for capital punishment, which bears out our previous remarks that capital punishment is regarded with less dread than life-long bondage by criminals. It appears that a Mrs. Sarah M. Victor of Ohio was some time back found guilty of murder and sentenced to be hanged, This sentence was subsequently commuted to imprisonment for life by the Governor of that State. The woman found solitary confinement so terrible, coupled with the utter hopelessness of escape, that she preferred death, and actually petitioned, in January 1876, to have her original sentence enforced, on the grounds that she had never consented to its commutation. After eighteen months, the Judge of the Ohio Court decided that her pardon was illegal, and issued an order for her delivery to the proper authorities, for the purpose of having the original sentence of hanging carried into effect. An appeal by third parties has been made to the Supreme Court of the United States against this sentence; but the hanged rather that to continue to live in hopeless life-long bondage. This incident is a case in eyes of a criminal, than death by capital sentence. must die, according to the inevitable law of naon without the hopes and pleasures and enjoyments of life, day after day and year after year, is an unnatural state, which places the case of the felon in terrible contrast with that of innocent human beings, who enjoy all the legitimate happiness of life. Let any candid person ask himself or herself; which would you prefer? a felon's doom of life-long bondage? or, death? We think that the majority of mortals would answer: by all means, death before life bondage! The people of future times will take this view of the case of capital punishment, we believe.

Communications.

HANALEI, August, 1877. Mr. EDITOR .- Months are past and nothing has been done to our roads, not even a road supervisor has been appointed; the few bridges which are put up, are made by private parties so as to keep up the communication. If His Excellency the Minister of the Interior, calls this fair, then we say it is queer. We think that this is the greatest injustice which ever can be done to a district.

We demand that His Excellency the Minister of of A. S. Wilcox, Esq., who resigned about three the regular market price. The climate is everyis no competent person to fill this place, then we say, there are, and we have sent a petition to the Interior Office asking for the appointment of one; but we fear our petition has gone in the waste paper basket. We are confident there are persons in the our rights by making our affairs public. A NUMBER OF TAX PAYERS.

To the Editor of the Pacific Commercial Advertiser: Sin:-Allow me space in your valuable columns to speak of of our worthy townsman, Capt. Oat, in honor of the birthday of his youngest son Freddie. The influence of these little gatherings and evening parties upon our young people cannot but be beneficial. They serve to rub off those trifling or awkward incongruities of conduct or speech that are so annoying in general society, not only to the actors themselves, but to those of their friends who may happen to be cognizant of them. At an early hour the company began to assemble, and in its ranks might be seen some of the lovellest young ladies to be found in our city, and among the young gentlemen, numbers whose future, I would fain believe, is full of the brightest pro-

The music soon struck up, and the rush for partners showed the eagerpess of the young gentlemen for the fun to begin. The ladies reciprocated, to judge by their readiness in responding, and the whirling and many cotillion and quadrille, and giddy waltz, testified to the zest with which all enjoyed the brightness of the passing hour. Of the case and grace of the dancers it is needless to speak for we all know the accomplishments of Honolulu ladies in the Terpsichorean art, and to speak of the extreme excellence of one is simply to state what belongs to all. But in this connection I cannot refrain from mentioning one, and in doing so I am sure I shall not awaken the slightest jealousy or envy on the part of any lady present. I allude to the distinguished grace and beauty of Miss Lillie Williams, whose superior in these respects it would be extremely difficult, if not impossible to find, either here (where there are so many others worthy of the same praise) or elsewhere. This is strong language, I am aware, but none too strong for the occasion, or the young lady of whom I speak. I only regret that some one with more fluent and ready pen than mine was not present, that her radiant beauty and charming grace might meet with a fitting description. (Entre ngue: This to be understood of the rest dining-room, I will only say that it was duly appreciated by an appetite that gave zest to the ample viands with which the board was loaded, and that no greater compliment sould be paid the cuisine than the wrecked appearance which the table soon presented. A few more dances, and the party broke up, wishing their

Our Public Schools There is no movement in the interests of a people so important as that which carries on the work of education. By this proposition I do not intend to obscure in the very least degree, the eternal concerns that are predicated upon religion; but if we would promote the most complete development, even in the moral growth of men, we must prepare them by healthful mental conditions. The highest interests of any people are best secured through the universal education that is represented by the Public Schools. And though, geographically speaking, the Hawaiian Kingdom is but a dot in the bulk of this great round world, it might prove itself, through the education of its people, an Archimedean lever among the machinery of human activity that operates from pole to pole, and girdles the earth from the rising to the setting

It is often said that people do not come here to make permanent homes for life, and hence the nstitutions of the country are of little importance them. This is short-sightedness, for whatever advances a community, enhances the welfare of every resident therein. And then it is selfishness o the extremest degree. Do these people who come here to spend a few years in the accumulation of wealth to be enjoyed in other climes, imagine that their departure from our Islands will totally dismember the whole social, political or commercial fabric? Have they no wish to leave for others who may desire to avail themselves of these same privileges, such conditions as will cause them to be remembered with pride and gratitude by future residents of this Island home? But the future actual citizenship of this Kingdom is, or ought to be largely represented in our Public Schools. What is given there should be a matter of earnest consideration. Popular education is demanded by our political economy. The individuality of every citizen declares itself through his power to benefit or injure the whole community of which he forms a part. This power directly proportioned to his ability to control himself, acquired through the discipline and knowledge of that period of life which is usually spent in the school-room. The regard which every man entertains for the land of his birth, or his adoption, demands that the people be educated. And here pre-eminently is this the case. So many elements of society are brought together that the nicest discrimination is necessary for the proper selection of what will best preserve us as a respected nation among the other nations of the earth. The love of mankind which Christianity develops in the heart asks for a general interest in our Public Schools. If we would be saved from the depravity, the vice and wretchedness that characterizes the sea-ports of the continental world, we must demand and procure the essentials for the highest moral and intellectual culture of the rising generation, and enforce our compulsory School Law, till all are brought under the influence of the same.

There is no work to which genius and exp rience can be more worthily consecrated, than that of bringing about a pure, wise and intelligent interest in our Public Schools. Every individual here, whether statesman, merchant or artisan, whether he represents capital or labor, should feel that the Public Schools are a mighty engine for pushing forward the work of progress whose foundations were so successfully laid a half a century ago. Our position in the Pacific makes it important that woman herself still persists in demanding to be our lights should always be trimmed and burning. We may seem small, but we can be important, even to the nations whose shipping passes and point which illustrates our argument that life-long repasses our beautiful Island world. It matters bondage is a far more terrible punishment in the little with what eye we are scanned ; popular education is demanded, whether we desire to stand Physiologically, this may easily be explained; all forth as an example of a wisely self-governed people, whether this is to be merely a resort for ture ; consequently, to make up one's mind to die | health and pleasure, or whether it is to be half-way by hanging, is very much the same as to resign stopping place for those whose journey of life is but oneself to die on a bed of sickness. But to live one grand commercial speculation. The Public Schools are the very Palladium of every and all our interests; and as such must be guarded as the nation's most precious treasure.

MR. EDITOR :- The arrival of ninety or more European immigrants by the barkentine Wm H. Dietz, from San Francisco, would seem to be a settlement of our problem of a labor supply; but when I read an advertisement which appeared in the California Democrat, published in the German language, I am led to believe that we are paying, or may yet pay, only too dearly for the solution of our vexed question. The publication reads as follows: "Wanted for Honolulu (S. I.) German or Scandinavian laborers. Passage money will be advanced by the vessel which sails this day. To sign contracts here is not required. Labor on Sugar plantations is paid with twelve dollars and board and lodging per month, and is easily to be found; or those wishing to become settlers will be furnished with land, seed, and all the necessaries of life, so that they can cultivate sugar on their own account the Interior appoint a new road supervisor in place and risk. The government purchases the crop at months ago. If His Excellency is afraid that there where considered the finest and healthiest in the world. Clothing as well as all other goods are very cheap as they are duty free. For further informstion call upon the German labor agents, Zechandelear & Co., No 606 Clay Street, up stairs. Applicants are received on board the vessel without any payment whatever. The passage money ($20) is to be paid after it is first earned on the islands. The applicants must furnish their pillows and blankets, and be on board this morning before nine o'clock with their luggage."

A more outrageous tissue of lies could hardly have been woven together. I have always believed that any European who emigrates to these islands tor the purpose of engaging as a laborer upon our sugar estates, under our present labor system, must, sooner or later, be sadly disappointed; even if the representations made to him be honest. It is not difficult to see that the immigrants by the Wm. H. Diets must be disappointed early in their experience on these islands; that disappointment will probably breed disaffection, and in turn, a long train of evils, the effects of which recent experiences in the United States plainly portray.

MR. EDITOR: The communication in Wednesday's Gazette signed " Philo-Justice," is anything but just, and misrepresents facts. The case of the white boy who stole a sloop boat, was simply this; The owner of the boat did not desire a heavy fine to be inflicted; the prosecution (Deputy Marshal) did not want one, because the result would be that government would be saddled with the support of a prisoner for a long period; the accused was a green silly lad and belonged to a ship in port to sail in about a week; under all the circumstances, and at the request, not of influential friends, but of the parties most interested, the Police Magistrate imposed the sufficient sentence of 8 days imprisonment and a fine of $5. PHILO-VEBITAS.

Mn. EDITOR :- I have always supposed that 21 guns constituted a Royal salute. Am I correct, and if so can you inform me why, on the embarcation of Her Majesty the Queen on Monday evening the salute consisted of only 19 guns?

Respectfully yours, INQUIRER. [Our correspondent is correct in the supposition that 21 guns constitutes a Royal salute; but, we are inclined to think, made a mistake in counting only 19 last Monday. Each member of the Royal Family is by international usage entitled to twentyone guns, and the salute is always fired by either a shore battery or by a saluting ship of a friendly nation, whenever the Royal standard is displayed afloat .- Ep P.
